Khalid Yousuf, M.D.

HIP AND KNEE SURGERY

Dr. Khalid Yousuf knew from an early age he would follow in the footsteps of many of his family members who are also doctors. He adopted their caring, attentive nature which is evident in his patient interaction today. "I have always loved working with my hands, which made surgery a natural choice for me, but it was learning how to truly care for patients by listening to them and spending time with them that has made such a difference in my practice," Dr. Yousuf says. "When I first entered medicine, I didn't know orthopedics existed, but once I discovered it, it was love at first sight. Enabling people so that they can stay active and independent is truly rewarding."

A native Texan, Dr. Yousuf has moved around the U.S. for training before returning to Texas to be near his family and join Baylor Scott & White Orthopedic Associates of Dallas. He utilizes surgical and technological advancements, which allows patient to be candidates for outpatient joint replacement surgery. Minimally invasive techniques, such as anterior hip approach and partial knee replacements, have allowed patients to return to their active lifestyles within weeks. He also specializes in nonsurgical management of hip and knee arthritis. "My mission is to listen to my patients' goals and partner with them to achieve them," he says. "I bring a human element to my practice that my patients appreciate."

Dr. Yousuf is board certified in orthopedic surgery, a Fellow of the American Association of Hip and Knee Surgeons, and serves as an adjunct assistant professor Texas A&M University, College of Medicine. He recently achieved the distinction of being a Certified Physician Executive by the American Association of Physician Leaders. Outside of his busy practice, Dr. Yousuf enjoys spending time with his wife and three daughters. They enjoy cooking and traveling together. An avid car enthusiast, in his younger years, he used to quarter mile race his Camaro Z28 and Trans Am.
